OUR STORY

A lot of this story is about Tova finding her voice, her place, and where she feels she needs to be at this stage in her life. It is like she is drawing her future - understanding her past, looking forward, and writing her narrative. It is beautiful to watch her undressing herself, watching her navigate old friends, accept new, and really spend the time it takes to find herself in her new reality. This story is about her undersanding herself, testing the waters, and learning what she is capable of. It is a remarkable slow story :)

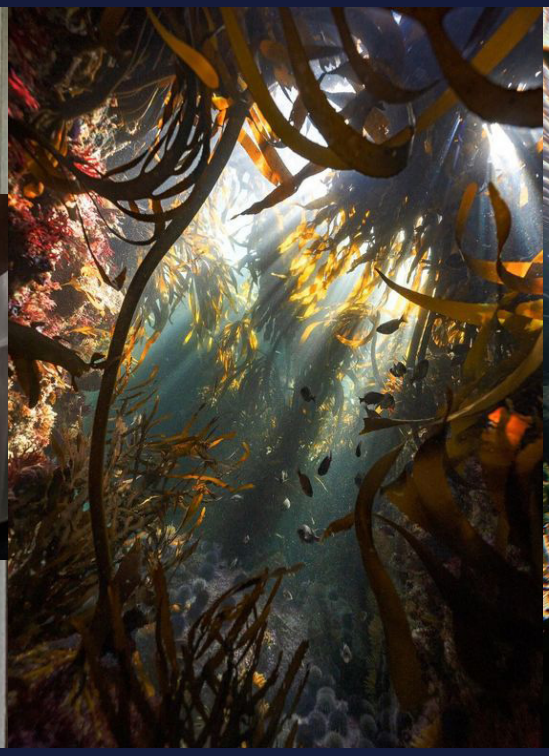

THE AQUARIUM

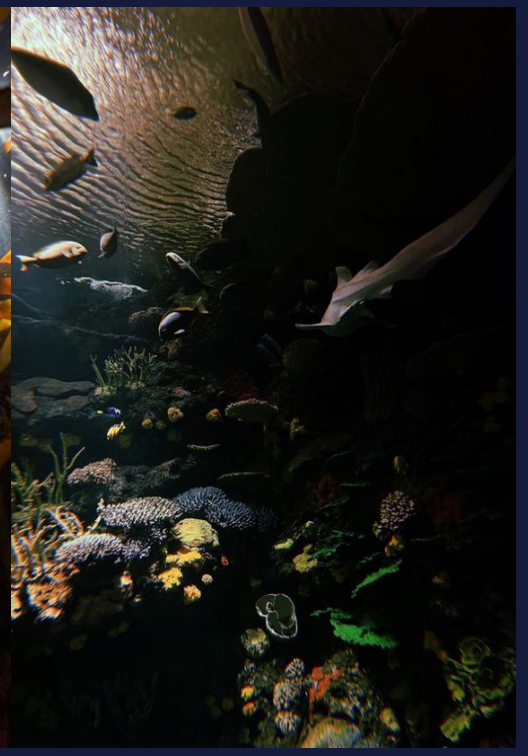

This place is a character in our story. It is dark. It's unknown and we discover it with our characters. I don't ever feel like there needs to be this wide, impressive establisher of this place. It feels simple, small town. To that end, I see rectangular aquarium builds, nothing that blows us away - its not about the tech and architecture of an impressive space, it is about finding the light, the mess, the scuffs on the floor, and most importantly, the solitude and beauty of the creatures within it.
